COUNTY BOARD IN REGULAR SESSION

CANVASS OF ATHERTON VOTE MADE AND GRADES FOR THE IMPROVEMENT OF LOMITA
PARK STREETS FIXED.

When the county supervisors met in Redwood City Tuesday the canvassing of the votes cast at the Atherton incorporation election was the first order of business. The vote was found to be 114 for and 16 against the proposition, as set forth in another column of today's Enterprise.

The improving of several streets in Lomita Park was taken up and a resolution adopted establishing grades and curb lines for the work. The resolution embodied a provision that the county spend the sum of $2000 for a drainage ditch on the west side of the highway. The board set October 15th as the time for a further hearing in this matter.

Supervisor Thomas L. Hickey submitted an estimate received from the Pacific Gas and Electric Company for the construction of a line to supply the old county farm with electricity. The amount involved was $6015, with an estimated revenue of $2600 for five years' service, the remainder, or $3415, to be made up by the county, subject to certain rebates. Action by the board was deferred to the next meeting.

County Purchasing Agent E. H. Werder was directed to purchase a Dodge touring car for the use of the sheriff's office, a former order for a Ford being rescinded.

Sheriff H. W. Lampkin reported that he had a large amount of brass kettles, coils, etc., which had been confiscated in prohibition raids, and suggested that this material be sold. He was instructed to turn it over to Mr. Werder to be disposed of.

Adolph Seigel of Halfmoon Bay was appointed assistant engineer at the new Community Hospital at a salary of $150 a month.

Reports from county officers were received and a number of claims against the county audited.

MANY MORE NEW HOMES ASSURED FOR SO. S. F.

Ten New Houses Started in Peck's
Lots; Prospects Bright for Many More Very Soon.

It was announced early this week that the E. C. Peck Company will start the immediate construction of ten houses in the north end of town. As soon as this first unit of an extensive building program is completed ten more houses will be started, and the program is to continue until twenty-five houses are built. This will mean a big and much-needed addition to housing accommodations in the north end of town, and, as new employees are constantly arriving here to work at the factories, it will result in a very considerable addition to the residents of this city. Contracts for the first ten houses have been let and materials have been purchased. The ground for the first house has been broken and work is now under way.

It was reported at Tuesday evening's meeting of the Chamber of Commerce that the plan whereby Meyer Bros. of San Francisco propose to construct some fifty or more new houses in this city was still being worked upon and the prospects were that it would be successful. It hinges partly upon the heads of the various factories giving approval and cooperation, and so far as it has been taken up with factory officials encouragement has been met.

With twenty-five houses assured and fifty more in prospect, indications are that the present pressing shortage of homes in this city will be materially relieved within a short time.

GOOD VIEW OF ECLIPSE OBTAINED IN THIS CITY

Although scientific observers of the sun's eclipse Monday are considerably disappointed by the results of their observations and photos, residents of this city have little to complain of, for the eclipse was plainly visible. Amateur observers here armed with scraps of smoked glass, camera films and other home-made devices were to be seen on the streets any time between 11:30 and 3 o'clock gazing skyward. Those watching for the event declare that the eclipse began here at about 11:40, although to conform strictly to rules and regulations laid down by the scientists it should not have started for several minutes after that time. The eclipse approached the nearest to being complete at 12:51, when it darkened 95 per cent of the sun.

It might be a good idea if local observers who smoked glass fragments laid them away for future use, as we will have another eclipse in 1943.

CITY OFFICIALS NOW ATTENDING CONVENTION

City Trustees F. A. Cunningham and H. Scampini, City Marshal C. C. Conrad, Fire Chief B. H. Trux and City Attorney J. W. Coleberd are in attendance at the League of Municipalities convention at Coronado this week, having left last Friday. Mr. Scampini made the trip by boat, the other four going down in Marshal Conrad's machine. They are expected back about Friday of this week. Mr. Coleberd is scheduled for an address at the convention, his subject being the new motor vehicle act.

ATHERTON VOTES TO INCORPORATE

San Mateo county now has a brand-new city within its borders as a result of the incorporation election held at Atherton in the southern part of the county last Friday. The proposition to incorporate the town carried more than 7 to 1 majority, 114 votes being cast for incorporation and 16 against it. The interest taken in the election among the residents of the district involved is clearly indicated by the fact that practically 90 per cent of the registered voters cast their ballot, and most of those failing to appear at the polls were found to be away from their homes.

The city officials elected are as follows:

For Trustees—
M. A. Harris	111
F. H. Crosby	110
Ell Wiel	99
Cutler H. Bonestell	102
Edward L. Eyre	109
For Treasurer—
C. F. Michaels	98
For Clerk—
C. R. Walter	96

It is reported that petitions for the incorporation of Menlo Park are now being circulated. For a while there was a lively contest on between Menlo and Atherton for incorporation, as both proposed to include some of the same territory. Now, with the Atherton election successful, Menlo proposes to go ahead and incorporate what is left.

JAPANESE RELIEF FUND IS STARTED

Opening of Collections Results in $150
Given in Short Time.

The work of collecting money for a Japanese relief fund in this city began here Tuesday afternoon when a committee interviewed a number of firms in the business district. Only a few hours have so far been given to the work, but about $150 has so far been collected. The soliciting of contributions will be taken up again Friday by the committee, which was appointed by Mayor G. W. Holston.

A ready response was made by every firm visited, not one turning down the good cause. The committee expressed confidence that the fund for this city would be swelled to probably $300 within the next day or two.

Owing to the fact that members of the committee have so far been able to spend only an hour or two working, the list so far is very incomplete and will not be published this week. In next week's issue it is hoped to publish it in full. It will probably not be possible to make a house-to-house canvass for funds, but those wishing to do so can leave their contributions at either bank or at The Enterprise office and due credit will be given.

POLICE GOING AFTER HEADLIGHT LAW VIOLATORS

The Division of Motor Vehicles announces the first big objective in a state-wide campaign to make the highways of California safe will be the reduction and subsequent entire elimination of the glaring headlight evil. A drive to that end will be commenced Saturday night, September 15th, the same to be continued for a period of ten days, according to bulletins being sent this week to captains of all county traffic squads now operating under state direction, as well as captains of city squads which have expressed the desire of cooperating with the state forces.

The state force now consists of thirty county units, with a total of ninety-five men, and five inspectors at large, which will be augmented in this drive by the county and city squads of Los Angeles and San Francisco and the city squads of San Diego, Fresno, Stockton and Sacramento.

Glaring headlights, lights out of focus, single lights on automobiles, tail lights out and excessive candle-power globes will receive attention in the first drive.

Approximately 200 official headlight adjusting stations have been established in the thirty counties of the state in which traffic officers have been appointed. Lists of the official stations will be in the hands of the respective county captains before the drive is started.

Automobile clubs and individual motorists are urged to assist in this movement, to the end that night driving may be made safe.

EARLY STRUGGLES OF LOCAL CHURCH TOLD AT SAN MATEO

Mrs. J. E. Sullivan of this city was one of the speakers at a meeting in San Mateo last Sunday held to commemorate the twentieth anniversary of the founding of the San Mateo Methodist church. For several years after the founding of the San Mateo church the Methodist church in this city was a branch of the other, and Mrs. Sullivan's talk was along the lines of the struggles the local Methodists had in the early days of this city to keep a congregation together. Mrs. Sullivan is the only charter member left of the combined church and attended the service on special invitation. She told how the local congregation met at that time in the old Butchers' Hall here. Several members of the local church attended the meeting with Mrs. Sullivan. The Rev. C. H. Kirkbride of San Mateo, who was present at the meeting, often held services in this city in these early days of the local congregation.

BIG POWER LINE TO BE BUILT ACROSS THIS COUNTY

According to instructions issued to Engineer M. M. O'Shaughnessy by the San Francisco supervisors, a big power line for the transmission of Hetch Hetchy power into San Francisco will be built from Newark across this county and into the big city.

This order by San Francisco officials resulted in the first victory of municipal ownership over the proposition for distributing Hetch Hetchy electricity through private corporations. Action of the supervisors means that the great power lines will pass through San Mateo county, crossing the bay probably south of Redwood City, where a steel bridge is soon to be erected for the support of an aqueduct which will connect with the Las Pulgas tunnel, now nearing completion, as a part of the great Hetch Hetchy system.

CHAMBER HEARS OF SIGNBOARD PROGRESS

Billboard Co. to Help Build, to Paint and to Electrically Equip Boards.

One of the outstanding features of Tuesday evening's meeting of the Chamber of Commerce was the report of the committee commissioned to interview the Foster & Kleiser billboard company to see what could be done for securing service for signs at the approaches to this city.

This committee, headed by Dr. F. S. Dooley, reported that they had interviewed Mr. McNeal, manager of the company, and that the result of the visit had been in every way successful. Owing to the high construction cost recently quoted the Chamber by this company on signs, plans have been worked out whereby the Chamber and the city will bear the first construction cost, and Mr. McNeal agreed, if the city officials decide to allow his company to operate in this city without paying a license, to paint three signs twice a year and install all electric equipment. The billboard's official even volunteered more service than was asked for, in that his company will furnish blueprints for the construction of the boards and will give the services of its location department to see that the boards are so placed as to get the best display and to withstand wind pressure.

It was the consensus of opinion of the committee and the Chamber members that the sum saved on the three signs by this agreement would fully equal the amount that would be derived by the city from placing a local tax on the billboards.

Steps will be taken in the near future to erect a large sign at the intersection of the road from this city with the state highway near the cemeteries. This sign will have a display space fifty by fifteen feet and will be lettered to direct traffic down the peninsula through this city, as set forth in last week's Enterprise. The only point now standing in the way of the immediate erection of the sign is the portion of construction cost which will be borne by the city from its advertising fund. This will probably be settled at the next meeting of the city trustees.

The committee on the Tanforan road reported that the South San Francisco Land and Improvement Company stood willing to give the right of way free of charge and that the Pacific Coast Jockey Club, through its secretary, declared it would make good on its first promise to contribute $5000 toward the cost of improving the thoroughfare. It was also brought out that the officials of the land company had also stated they were perfectly willing to give, free of cost, the right of way for the extension of Orange avenue to Baden crossing. It further transpired that on May 22d of this year the company had asked City Engineer George A. Kneese to prepare an estimate on the cost of construction of this road across the swamp but had not yet received these figures, this lack of definite information on construction costs having since stood in the way of further steps being taken toward having the road built.

That the new station at Leipsic had no water connections and that this was a serious obstacle in the way of development planned there, was brought out in a request of the men who recently built the much-needed station there that the Chamber assist them to get water. They stated they planned to lay out lawns around the station and put in sanitary conveniences for travelers if water could be secured. Secretary D. R. Phelps was instructed to write to M. McCamp, general manager of the Market Street Railways Company, urging that the company help to defray the cost of piping water to the station.

A suggestion was made that it would be excellent advertising for this city if a large sign could be laid out in white on the hills above this city, setting forth the name of the town and the fact that it is an industrial center. Such a sign would be plainly visible to the crowds that will attend Tanforan Park and also from the highway for miles down the peninsula. Robert Speed was appointed, with power to select assistants, to learn the cost of such a sign and lay a definite plan before the next meeting.

PROSPECTS FOR NEW M. E. CHURCH BRIGHTER

St. Paul's M. E. Church Purchases
Two Lots at Miller and Spruce for New Structure.

Indications are now pointing toward the construction of a new Methodist church building in this city. At a meeting of the trustees of the church held Monday evening, ground for the structure was purchased and it is hoped that the new building will become a reality some time during the coming year. The ground purchased consists of two lots at the northwest corner of Miller and Spruce avenues with a frontage of 100 feet on Miller avenue. The lots were purchased from Haaker & Ratto.

The erection of a new church building in this city has been the dream of members of St. Paul's Methodist Church for several years. A campaign to raise the necessary funds was started several years ago and has been continued ever since. The recent purchase of the Methodists' lot on the civic center lent new stimulus to the plan, and there now seems every prospect that the efforts of the church workers will meet with success during the coming year. It has been a long and uphill struggle to raise the money, but those who have had the work in hand have never ceased their efforts. For about three years the old church building has stood on ground owned by the local land company, and this building long ago proved inadequate to the requirements of the growing membership. It is intended that the new structure will be up-to-date and planned along the lines requisite for modern church purposes.

METHODISTS HOPE FOR RETURN OF PASTOR

The congregation at St. Paul's Methodist Church are earnestly hoping that the district conference of the church, now in session at Grass Valley, will return the Rev. A. P. Beall to the charge in this city he has held during the last year. The pastor has endeavored himself to his congregation here to such an extent that at a meeting of the trustees of the church Monday evening a request, receiving a unanimous vote, was ordered sent to the officials of the conference to return the Rev. Mr. Beall to this charge for another term. It seemed to the church workers, also, that their present pastor, who is now closely in touch with conditions here bearing upon the construction of a new church building, was in better position to further those plans than a new man would be.

There will be no services at St. Paul's Sunday because of the pastor's absence, but Mrs. Beall will return before Sunday to hold Sunday school in the morning and young people's meeting in the evening as usual.

SAN BRUNO MAN DROPS DEAD DURING CELEBRATION

Harry W. Summers, a resident of San Bruno, dropped dead in front of the Exposition Auditorium in San Francisco Monday morning while viewing the Native Sons' parade. Summers was loudly cheering the San Bruno contingent in the parade when he suddenly collapsed. He was pronounced dead when examined by a physician summoned.

PAC. CITY TO STAGE JAPANESE BENEFIT

A special program of vaudeville acts and novel entertainment numbers will be given at Pacific City next Sunday for the benefit of the Japanese relief fund. It is announced that Floyd Johnson, the South San Francisco boxer who has had such a spectacular career in the ring and is looked upon as a possible heavyweight champion, will be one of the attractions and will referee a bout between boxers from the Olympic Club of San Francisco. Notables from the stage and movie world will appear, and it is stated that the program will include geisha girls and bathing girls' revues, Japanese wrestlers, jugglers, and many other features. It is probable that Tommy Gibbons, noted heavyweight boxer, will also appear.

WELFARE CLUB TO GIVE DANCE AT FRATERNAL HALL

The Employees' Welfare Club of the Western Meat Company will give a dance the evening of September 22d at Fraternal Hall in this city. A committee is now at work making arrangements for the affair. The best of music will be provided and everything possible done to give the large crowd that is expected to attend a good time. This is the club's first public dance.

Read it in The Enterprise.

TANFORAN, SAN BRUNO DRAW CROWDS

ADMISSION DAY RODEO AND CITY
CELEBRATION SCORE GREAT
SUCCESSSES; PONY EXPRESS
RIDERS SET WORLD RECORD.

The great rodeo and Pony Express spectacle which marked the opening of Tanforan Park closed in a blaze of glory Monday at the end of the three days' exhibition. Large crowds attended the big new amusement ground all three days, but the largest gathering was on Sunday, when a capacity throng filled almost every available foot of space and packed the huge grandstand to its limit. All the features promised by the management were held as scheduled and those attending were given their money's worth in generous measure.

One of the most notable events was the arrival of Will Tevis, the victor in the Pony Express race, who arrived about 3 o'clock in the afternoon, approximately thirty minutes ahead of Lieutenant S. M. Lipman, who rode the last lap from the California line for the United States army. Tevis rode the entire 260 miles from the state line alone, while the army men rode it in three relays. The record for the entire distance from St. Joseph, Mo., was about forty-two hours shorter than the best time made by Pony Express riders of old. Mary Pickford, noted screen actress, and her husband, Douglas Fairbanks, were on hand to welcome the hardy riders, and Miss Pickford pinned medals on the breasts of Tevis and Lipman.

Monday also marked the close of the three days' celebration of Admission Day by San Bruno, and the committee who had the big affair in charge declared it had been an unqualified success in every way.

The parade at San Bruno Monday morning was a most creditable showing. Miss Rose Lombardi, queen of the celebration, presided over the festivities with her maids of honor, Miss Irene Openshaw and Mrs. M. Bergman.

Judge G. H. Buck of the superior court, County Clerk Mrs. Elizabeth M. Kneese and Supervisor Thomas L. Hickey acted as judges of the parade and awarded prizes as follows:

For the best decorated float, San Bruno Woodmen of the World; best appearing section, San Bruno Young Ladies' Institute; second best appearing section, San Bruno Home-stead, Brotherhood of American, Yeomen; best appearing school, Northbrae school, San Bruno; best appearing drill team, San Bruno Young Ladies' Institute; largest number of participants, Pals of Mercury.

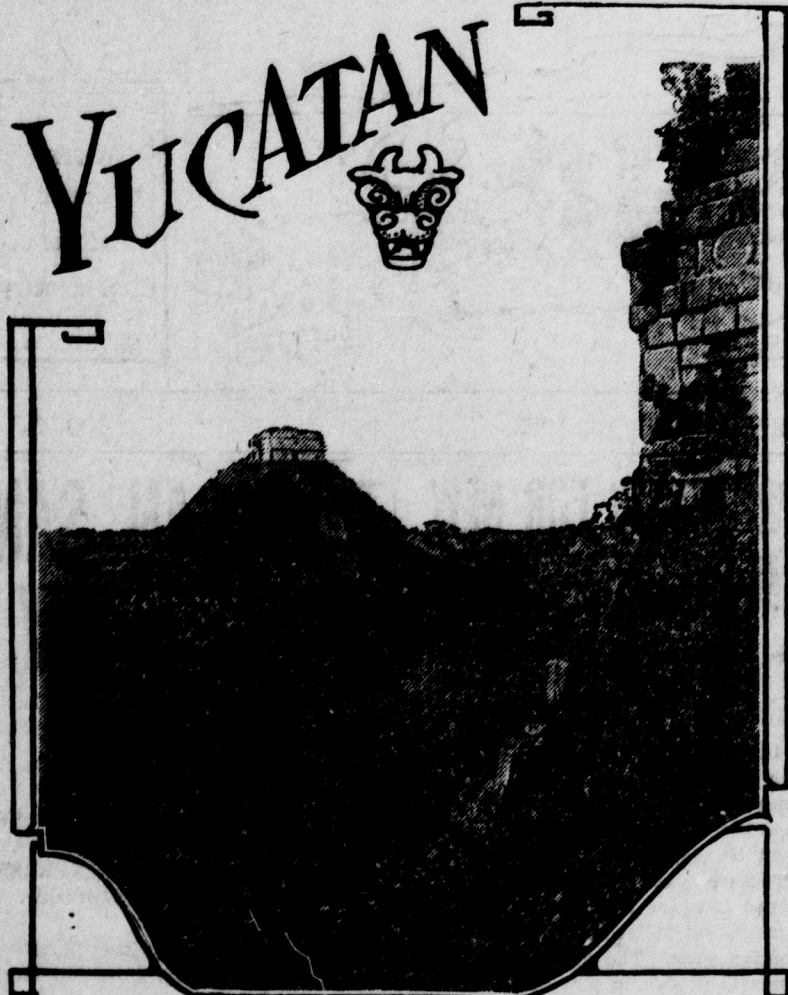

District Attorney Franklin Swart delivered the oration of the day at the exercises following the parade. The afternoon was devoted to a program of sports and athletic contests held in the grounds surrounding Uncle Tom's Cabin.

FORMER SO. S. F. BOY BEING SOUGHT AS KILLER

Police of San Francisco and the bay region are on the lookout for Eddie Neilas, aged 23 and formerly a resident of this city, and Ray Buckner, aged 23, both San Francisco newsboys and both accused of being implicated in the killing of Louis Boccia, a gang leader.

The search of a lodging house at 1651 Market street by the police looking for Neilas and Buckner led to the shooting of Fred Fritchen, proprietor of the place, who resisted the attempts of the police to search the rooms. The officers said he made as though to draw a gun when Detective Tom Conlon shot him in the leg.

Boccia's slaying followed a quarrel between Boccia and Joseph Castiglio of 86 Colton street, San Francisco, another newsboy and son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Castiglio of this city. Castiglio claimed that Buckner with a companion held up his (Castiglio's) wife and robbed her of $40 and a neighbor, Carlo Arletto, of $2 Colton street, of whom they secured $17. Neilas is said by witnesses to have stepped into the argument and shot at Castiglio three times, then fired two more shots, which entered Boccia's back and killed him. Castiglio was at one time known as a boxer and has appeared several times in fistic exhibitions here.

Pyramid Temple of Chichen Itza.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

Archeology, modern transportation and radical government experiments have been made bedfellows by the opening of a new automobile road by the socialist government of the state of Yucatan, Mexico, leading from Merida, the capital, to the wonderful ruins of Chichen Itza, which might be termed America's Thebes. One of the world's most interesting remains of our ancient civilization is thus made accessible to students and tourists as a by-product to a radical government's plan to make work for laborers during an economic depression by pushing road construction.

In the hot, rather dry Yucatan peninsula, which today is little visited by outsiders, civilization reached its highest point on the North American continent in the years before the coming of Europeans. After the finding of savages by Columbus and his immediate followers, both on the West Indian islands and on parts of the mainland, the discovery a little later in Yucatan of structures built of stone, and built well, and of artistic carvings, came as a great surprise to the Spaniards.

While some of the structures were in use at the time of the Spanish conquest, a number of once great cities had been abandoned and swallowed up by the jungle. Some mysterious fate had overtaken this people, the Mayas, and only a somewhat degenerate remnant was clinging to the works of their more illustrious ancestors. The wholly new regime resulted in the final extinguishment of their culture.

Temples and palaces, prisons, "convents," arenas for games, astronomical observatories and monuments, all accurately built of masonry and decorated with artistic carvings and hieroglyphics, are some of the sign posts pointing to the achievements of the Mayas and their development of culture. Archeologists state that at the time of their mysterious decline they were at the threshold of a true civilization. Indeed, in some ways they had surpassed in intellectual achievements the civilization of the Egyptians and the Babylonians.

Their Writing and Architecture.

In their system of writing, the Mayas had reached a most interesting point, found among no other existing people in the world, the transition point between picture writing, which the Chinese have never passed beyond, and phonetic writing by means of an alphabet such as that we use.

The architectural types of the Mayas and their decorative designs have features so similar to some of those of the old world that the earlier students of the American ruined cities believed that their builders had been influenced by Egyptians, Babylonians or Hindus. The types of arches and certain sculptured designs were compared especially to those found in the great Hindu temple of Boro-Budur in Java. It is the more general opinion now, however, that the works of the Mayas were the result of a culture born on this continent and acquired by this people in their toilsome way upward from savagery and through barbarism.

The story of Yucatan in recent times is the story of henequen fiber. Offhand, that doesn't seem to affect the average American to any great extent. But it does affect him every time he buys a loaf of bread. The story might be framed like that of the house that Jack built. Henequen means reasonably cheap and plentiful binder twine; binder twine makes possible the use of harvesting machines; harvesters cheapen grain production; cheap grain means cheap bread; and so henequen, and arid Yucatan, play important parts in feeding America and the world.

The other side of the story—the rapid development of the henequen industry and the pouring of wealth into Yucatan—chiefly from the grain belt of North America—undoubtedly played its part in swinging the political pendulum from extreme feudalism to socialism.

Henequen, which is a sort of cactus not unlike the century plant or the "pulque cactus" in appearance, had been grown in Yucatan since prehistoric times and its fiber was used in local plantation and village industries. But there was no outside market of considerable magnitude for the fiber until the increasing use of harvesting machinery in the United States created a demand for large quantities of binder twine.

Once a Feudal State.

Before what may be called "the henequen era" in Yucatan a traveler in the country might have imagined—with a few concessions to race and climate—that he was in the heart of Europe's old feudalism. Some of the principal land owners had truly baronial estates through which one could travel for days. On the most extensive estates were scattered half a dozen or more great stone castle-like haciendas in the care of major domos. In these sumptuous dwellings members of the owner's family might not spend a night a year, for they lived for the most part in state in the capital, Merida, or spent their time traveling in Europe or the United States. In those days cattle raising was the chief industry in Yucatan and prosperity never reached below the few members of the propertied class.

Climate and physical conditions gave Yucatan its feudalism. The surface of the country consists of only the thinnest of soil, and underneath is porous limestone. The climate is dry and hot half the year, but there is a reasonable amount of rainfall during the other six months. Yucatan is one of the few areas in which there is an appreciable rainfall, but no streams or even stream beds. As fast as the rain falls during the rainy season it seeps through the thin soil and soaks into the limestone. The lack of surface water, and the fact that hardly any food crops can be grown on much of Yucatan's poor soil, made it practically impossible for the peasants to exist except under the wings of the great landholders.

The latter constructed capacious reservoirs at their haciendas, in which enough water was stored during the rainy season to supply all their retainers through the six months' dry period. The situation was helped out, too, by the cenotes, the unique water holes of Yucatan, apparently formed by a falling in of the roofs of subterranean lakes. In most cases these queer natural reservoirs were owned by the landed proprietors.

Laborers Now in Control.

Toward the close of the Nineteenth century henequen production shouldered out cattle production from the place of first importance, and before many years the fiber dominated the life of the country. The old feudal system remained largely unchanged, however, and the landowners became extremely wealthy. But some of the prosperity inevitably filtered down to a growing middle class, and even to the plantation laborers, and soon Yucatan gave indications of a political turbulence unknown in the older feudal days.

When the World war came prosperity reached its peak in Yucatan, with henequen fiber selling for as much as 19 cents a pound. The few landowners were no longer able to dominate the state government and the laborers and their friends, who gained control, reshaped the entire scheme of things. Wages of workers were fixed by legislation at $5.25 to $24 (in United States money) for each eight hours. After the armistice the price of henequen fell sharply, and by 1921 it had fallen to 4 cents, and in 1922 it reached its lowest point, 3½ cents. The wage laws remained unchanged and many of the plantations, carefully tended for years, were abandoned to wild growth. The country then experienced what was probably its greatest economic crisis. Henequen production was greatly reduced and conditions have improved somewhat with the fiber now at 4½ cents a pound.

Yucatan is the thumb, which, with the finger of Florida, almost encloses the Gulf of Mexico. It is for the most part a flat plain, its highest hills being measured in only hundreds of feet. It is one of the first lands to which the world-faring gulf stream gives its warmth.

SEASONABLE FOODS

There will be cool days and evenings when one feels the need of a hot dish. Griddle cakes are so universally liked that they are always a good, quick hot dish. Plenty of sour milk and eggs will make the best of cakes. It is a good plan when possible to take two cupfuls of sour milk, add to it a little flour and let it stand for a few hours or over night. In the morning add a teaspoonful of soda, level, and two to three eggs well beaten, salt and two tablespoonfuls of melted fat. Add more flour if needed. Fry on a hot griddle that need not be greased.

A slice or three of bread soaked in the sour milk over night, then prepared as above, will make a cake very much like an omelet, it will be so light and fluffy. This is a good way to use up bits of leftover bread.

Bean Soup.—Soak a pint of beans over night; in the morning drain and add cold water. Slice one onion, cook in a tablespoonful of corn oil five minutes, add two stalks of celery and simmer in with the beans until they are soft. Add more water as needed. Rub through a sieve, reheat, add salt to season, pepper and one-fourth of a teaspoonful of mustard with a dash of cayenne. Cook together two tablespoonfuls of oil with one and one-half tablespoonfuls of flour. Cut one lemon in thin slices, removing the seeds; add two hard-cooked eggs sliced, to the tureen, and pour over them the bean soup.

Julienne Soup.—Cut three onions and fry brown in a little butter. Add seasoning to taste, a pinch of mace and three tablespoonfuls of strong stock. Add a minced turnip, a stalk of celery, a carrot cut fine and a few green peas. Cook until the vegetables are well done. Serve either strained or not, as one likes.

For an invalid who is not fond of milk, toast a piece of bread, butter it well and pour over the toast a cupful of boiling milk to which has been added a part of a bouillon cube, enough to season the milk. Serve hot.

Best Ever Doughnuts.—Beat two eggs, add one and three-fourths cupfuls of sugar, beating until the sugar is well dissolved; add one-half teaspoonful of salt, nutmeg to flavor one and one-fourth cupfuls of sour milk, one-fourth cupful of sour cream, one teaspoonful of soda. Mix all together and put on ice, adding just enough flour to stir. When well chilled roll out and cook in hot fat. By chilling, the cakes take less flour and keep moist and tender longer.

Charm strikes the sight, but merit wins the soul.

SOUPS FOR THE SEASON

A variety of soups in one's card index of recipes will be found a source of great help when planning a meal.

Mock Turtle Soup.—Boil a calf's liver and heart with a knuckle of veal for three or four hours, skimming well, then strain. Chop the meat fine, add a chopped onion, salt, pepper, a dash of cloves, thickening with a little browned flour; add the meat to the liquor, and pour over (when hot) sliced hard-cooked eggs in the tureen. Add a slice or two of lemon and serve.

Purée of Beets.—Wash and cook beets until tender. Grate the beets, taking two cupfuls. Place two quarts of milk in a saucepan, add one-fourth cupful of flour mixed with cold milk; cook for ten minutes. Add the grated beets put through a fine sieve, adding a teaspoonful of onion juice, a pinch of thyme, two teaspoonfuls of salt, pepper to taste, with three tablespoonfuls of corn oil. Heat until hot and serve with crackers.

Veal Soup With Brains.—Cook a pair of calf's brains and press them through a colander with two large, boiled onions. In a saucepan over the heat add six tablespoonfuls of butter, add the brains and onions and stir until slightly brown. Dredge with four tablespoonfuls of flour, stir and add gradually three pints of veal stock. When hot, add one beaten egg mixed with one-half cupful of cream. Serve garnished with fried rings of green apples.

Mushrooms stewed in butter with cream added, then poured over crisp buttered toast makes a dish most delicate and appetizing.

NEITHER the anthracite miners nor the operators were entirely satisfied with the compromise settlement of their differences suggested by Gov. Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania, and the prospects at this writing are that there will be a temporary suspension of hard coal mining during which the maintenance men will continue at work at an increased wage. Parts of the governor's plan were acceptable to both sides, and it is presumed that negotiations will be carried further.

Governor Pinchot's proposition for a settlement of the controversy contained these four main points:

1. Recognition of the basic eight-hour day for all employees. If longer hours are necessary at certain times or in certain occupations, the overtime to be paid at the eight-hour rate.
2. A uniform increase of 10 per cent to all employees. This increase to take effect September 1.
3. Full recognition of the union by the operators, without the check-off, but with the right to have a union representative present when the men are paid.
4. Complete recognition of the principle of collective bargaining.

For three days and more the Pennsylvania executive, at the request of President Coolidge, had been studying the situation with the assistance of experts and conferring with the representatives of the operators and the miners. At the outset he served notice on both sides that the threatened suspension of anthracite mining on September 1 could not be allowed; that the quarrel was not a private one, and that the public, vitally interested, wanted to see justice done to both employer and employee but was tired of repeated strikes and suspensions. Wednesday night the governor laid his plan before the committees, again emphasizing the fact that public opinion would enforce a settlement.

Mr. Pinchot's proposal for an increase of wages was based on the calculation that 10 per cent would add 80 cents a ton to the cost of mining and that the operators, having made unusual profits during recent months, could easily absorb 10 cents a ton of this. The remaining 50 cents per ton, he said, "in the end should not be taken from the consumer," and he promised to make proposals later for getting this absorbed out of existing cost of transporting and distributing coal.

The employers' repeated tenders of arbitration to settle all present details of the controversy he set aside. He suggested that the wage and working arrangement he proposed should be made effective for not less than one year.

According to the United States coal commission, an anthracite strike would furnish another opportunity for wholesalers to repeat their speculative activities of last year and reap outrageously large profits. The commission stated that its inquiry into anthracite costs during the winter of 1922-23 led it to the conclusion that the speculative jobber or wholesaler was "the prime cause of the extremely high premiums paid for anthracite." It warned against panicky buying and urged retailers to join in combating the speculative tendencies of jobbers.

OVER in Europe the dogs of war began howling again last week. This time it was Italy and Greece that were shaking their fists at each other, and though there seemed really small chance of hostilities, the nervous statesmen remembered the somewhat similar situation between Austria and Serbia that developed into the greatest of all wars. Actually it was only Italy that was shaking a fist. A few days before the members of the Italian military mission headed by Gen. Ebrico Tellini, which with like missions from France and Great Britain was engaged in delimiting the Greco-Albanian frontier, were ambushed and assassinated between Janina and Santi Quaranta. Greece had been extremely dissatisfied with certain findings of the mission, and the fact that the Greek delegate who always accompanied the Italians was absent when the crime was committed convinced Italy that it was a Greek political plot.

Premier Mussolini therefore instructed Minister Montagna to present to Greece a written note in which Italy demanded:

"Ample excuses from the highest military authorities.
"Solemn funeral ceremonies in the Greek cathedral at Athens to be attended by all the members of the Greek government.
"Honors to the Italian flag on the part of the Greek fleet. Some units of the Italian fleet will be sent to Piraeus expressly to receive a Greek salute of 21 salves.

"A thorough investigation and capture of the assassins within five days of the acceptance of this note.
"Capital punishment for the criminals.
"An indemnity of 50,000,000 lire (roughly $2,500,000), payable within five days.

"Military honors to the victims as they are put aboard an Italian warship for return to Italy."
Mussolini demanded a reply within 24 hours, and his government at once got busy with its army and navy. Part of the fleet left Taranto hurriedly under full steam for an unannounced destination, and other units were concentrated at Capo di Leuca, the point of Italy nearest to Greece. Huge mass meetings were held in various Italian cities and there were demonstrations against Greeks, but little violence.

In her reply to this ultimatum Greece rejected demands four, five and six, which were considered too humiliating. Demands one, two, three and seven were accepted in modified form.

The interallied council of ambassadors met in Paris and sent a message to the Greek government declaring that it reserves for the powers the right to make known eventually the penalties and indemnities which may be judged necessary in connection with the killing of the members of the Italian boundary mission. The British foreign office also got busy at once, making extraordinary efforts to prevent hostilities. It was understood that in case of a deadlock with Italy, Greece would propose to refer the entire matter to the League of Nations.

Italy was aggressive in two other quarters. To the astonishment of the other powers, she suddenly entered the Tangier question, landing a few soldiers in that African town and announcing that she must be considered in the settlement of its future status, which is to be made by England, France and Spain in conference in London. Mussolini also had made demands on Jugoslavia for a settlement of Flume affairs satisfactory to Italy, and his virtual ultimatum expired Friday. It was reported that Italian troops were mobilizing in Flume.

ELECTIONS in the Irish Free State passed off with surprisingly little disturbance. Final reports were not available last week, but it was believed that the government party would maintain its plurality in the new parliament. President Cosgrave and nearly all of the other government leaders were re-elected, but Eamonn de Valera was returned by County Clare, defeating Prof. John McNeill, Free State minister of education. Other republicans who won seats were Countess Markiewicz and Mary MacSwiney. The government deemed the situation so safe that President Cosgrave and some of his ministers left for Geneva to prepare for Ireland's entrance into the League of Nations. The republicans threatened to set up a rival parliament, but it may be not enough were elected to enable them to carry out this plan.

MISSISSIPPI also had what amounted to an election last week—the runoff primary of the Democratic party. The contest for the governorship was between Henry L. Whitfield, former president of the State College for Women, and Theodore G. Bilbo, former governor. The former was victorious by about 15,000 votes.

BEFORE this is in the hands of the reader Chancellor Stresemann of Germany may have resigned in order that passive resistance in the Ruhr may be abandoned, for it is held in Berlin that he cannot capitulate officially, and at the same time it is admitted that the nation cannot hold out much longer in its course of opposition to France and Belgium. Three things are breaking down Germany's resistance—the cost and scarcity of coal, the financial situation and the failure of Bavaria to co-operate. The Bavarian officials have made demands on Stresemann which he can hardly accept, and it is believed Bavaria may secede from the German confederation if the chancellor undertakes to put through his program of dictatorial measures.

Industrial leaders of the Ruhr and the Rhineland have consented to a scheme of gradual abandonment of the passive resistance, and this may lead to discussions between Germany and France. It was held significant, also, that a permit was granted for a meeting of representatives of Prussia, Bavaria, Saxony and other German states with the Rhineland commission at Coblenz.

BELGIUM'S reply to the British note was delivered last week, and was not very pleasing to either France or Great Britain. It upholds France on the Ruhr occupation, but hits France by suggesting that Germany's payments should be divided among the allies in proportion to their respective material damages. Adoption of the suggestion means that Belgium's war ravaged zone would be repaired at Germany's cost, while France would lose pensions for 1,600,000 killed and 2,000,000 badly wounded soldiers. Belgium would sacrifice pensions for 23,000 killed and 40,000 mutilated.

COL. ERNEST P. BICKNELL, Col. R. E. Olds and W. G. Pearce, American delegates to the International Red Cross conference in Geneva, got as far as Paris and then refused to proceed because of a statement in a Swiss committee report that was considered offensive to the United States. This read:

"The International Red Cross committee does not believe that in the domain of Red Cross work supremacy of influence must belong to those who are most powerful financially. Money, which permits creation of functionaries, is certainly useful, but it must not give them the impression that they are the masters of an institution such as the International Red Cross."

This was taken as a direct slam at America because of the founding of the League of Red Cross Societies by the late H. P. Davidson of J. P. Morgan & Co. and the fact that American money made up 75 per cent of the funds needed for that organization's operations last year. Gustave Ador, president of the International Red Cross, cabled John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross, that there was no intention of hurting American feelings and urging the Americans to attend the Geneva meeting.

CAPT. LOWELL SMITH and Lieut. John Richter, army aviators, broke six aviation records at San Diego, Cal. They were in the air more than thirty-seven hours, established four new speed records as well as making new marks in duration and distance. To complete the flight, they made 15 contacts with another plane to take on gasoline, food, water, and oil.

OFFICIAL recognition of the government of Mexico by the United States was made Friday simultaneously in Washington and Mexico City. Formal resumption of diplomatic relations will follow almost immediately. The news was received by the Mexicans with great rejoicing.

Patriotic Words by Great Americans

WHAT OUR COUNTRY NEEDS

Patriotism has come rather generally to be interpreted as a willingness to fight and die for one's country and its institutions. That answers very well for a definition of patriotism during times of war, but is generally deficient in that it allows no room for patriotism in times of peace.

If a man loves his country, and is true to her institutions, and affectionately concerned for their quality and permanence, there will be something which he will be all the time doing in her behalf. Shooting our national enemies is only a small and accidental part of the matter. What our country needs most is men who will live for her rather than die for her, but live for her while there is no shooting to be done.—Rev. Charles H. Parkhurst.

JAPANESE RELIEF

One of the greatest humanitarian causes is now appealing to South San Francisco for aid. This is the relief of the sufferers from the earthquake, tidal wave and fires in Japan. The Japanese disaster is one of the most appalling in the world's history and money to the extent of millions of dollars is needed to prevent starvation, exposure and pestilence from adding thousands more victims to the list of the dead. In times past, notably during the war, South San Francisco has always "gone over the top" in every campaign for funds, and in this great cause it should not fail. A committee of business men has started the work of soliciting the business district and this work will be continued tomorrow (Friday). Open your hearts and purses and give according to your abundance. Put yourselves and families in the place of the Japanese sufferers and give as you would wish others to give for you and yours.

WHO SAYS

"WHAT'S THE USE?"

A young man ran for the legislature of Illinois and was badly swamped.
He next entered business, failed, and spent seventeen years of his life paying up the debts of a worthless partner.
He was in love with a beautiful young woman to whom he became engaged—then she died.
Entering politics again, he ran for congress and was badly defeated. He then tried to get an appointment to the United States land office, but failed.
He became a candidate for the United States senate, and was badly defeated.
Then he became a candidate for the vice-presidency and was once more defeated.
One failure after another—bad failures—great setbacks. Then he became one of the greatest men of America—Abraham Lincoln.
Who says, "Oh, what's the use?"

Anarchy will never get much of a hold in this country so long as county fairs and circuses continue to draw the crowds.

SUCCESS A BUILDING JOB!

Only by strictest attention to detail and utmost care in calculation was the young engineer William G. McAdoo moved up and up until his great triumph came in building the famous under-river tubes for passenger trains into New York.

McAdoo stands today as one of America's successful men and a Presidential possibility in the 1924 election.

Your success may be in heeding the thoughts he expressed recently, which were, in part:

"The character of citizenship is in the exercise of self-control. Thrift is one of the highest types of self-control, because in practicing thrift one has to be master of self at virtually every point of attack. Thrift may be in wise expenditure of funds—or in sound investment—maybe in conceding a temporary loss to realize a permanent gain. Thrift is successful business—no matter whether you be farm hand or bank president."

The Brown Mouse

By HERBERT QUICK

Here is one of the most original stories in the world; a novel as entertaining as it is instructive; a regular thought-awakener containing action, romance, humor, real character studies and a love interest. It is not about mice but about people, their problems, ambitions, emotions and affections. The author simply had a happy thought when he took a brown mouse and applied its characteristics to a human.

CUTTING IT DOWN

Forbes Magazine tells of a perspiring copy writer who, working on an Ivory soap campaign, produced this: "The alkaline elements and vegetable fats in this product are blended in such a way as to secure the highest quality of saponification alone, with a specific gravity that keeps it on top of the water, relieving the bather of the trouble and annoyance of fishing around for it in the bottom during his ablutions." For which bit of writing the advertising manager of the company, when the copy reached him, substituted two words: "It floats."—Y. C. Bulletin.

Blue and White

A. H. McGOVERN, Editor

The Blue and White is supposed to be a school paper. Each class is supposed to have a Blue and White reporter. The editor has found it very hard to collect news from the different reporters. They seem to be lazy. The only ones who have done anything are the high juniors and seniors. If the class reporter is lazy, the class ought to elect a new one. So let's go. Let's have some news in our next edition. The editor wants an article from each and every class reporter in next Tuesday morning. Don't forget.

FOOTBALL

Our high school team played a no-score game with St. Ignatius high school of San Francisco last Saturday at the latter's field. The game was exciting from beginning to end, and our team showed the stuff they are made of. Our opponents started hitting our line right off the bat, and in the first two downs made their yardage. But after that it was mostly our ball. If we had not fumbled so much, which was due to our one-day-old center, we might have won the game. All our boys played with the grand spirit, "They shall not pass." The feature of the game was the line plunging of our backfield. The only trouble with our boys was that they did not know when to stop.

Next Saturday we play Sacred Heart, another city school, on our field. We expect to win this game. So all our local supporters should come up and give the team a big boost.

RALLY

A rally was held in the high school auditorium last Friday at 3:30 p. m. It was held for the football team that was to play St. Ignatius high school in San Francisco the next day. Mr. Hunter, the new coach, gave us a talk. He is using a new system and it seems to work out very well. He said that the team was going into the game with the "do or die" spirit. Next we had some yells and school songs. Different members of the team were called on for talks, and after a few more yells the rally adjourned.

THE CANDY SALE

At the ringing of the noon bell on Wednesday, the 5th inst., a great scrambling and pushing could be seen in the hall. What was all that intense excitement? Why, of course, it was only the senior candy sale, and every one was trying to be there first and secure the best candy.

After the impatient customers had been duly waited upon and sent away satisfied, the seniors had a little breathing space in which to rest and count their money. It was found that they had made $14.45. This was considered very good, and the seniors turned their money over to their treasurer well satisfied.

That every dog should have his day. We all admit it right; But is there any reason, pray, To give each cat her night?

Alpheus McGovern—Why do you always buy your clothes on the installment plan?
Ernest Robinson—They try to give me the stuff that will last until the installments are paid.

Mr. Holt (in general sense)—Dorothy, how does light travel?
Dorothy Cohen (not thinking)—Light travels east and west.

A lady was entertaining her daughter's caller. The conversation had been somewhat spasmodic, and finally she decided to try him on some of the new books.

"Have you read 'Freckles,' Mr. McGraw?" she ventured.
"No, ma'am," he stammered, blushing. "Mine are the brown kind."

Mother was unpacking son George's suitcase and found a pawn ticket hanging upon his coat. "George, what is this tag doing on your coat?" Son George—"Oh, I was at a dance and checked my coat."

A moment later she came upon the trousers similarly tagged. With a puzzled look, she inquired: "George Wallace, what sort of a dance was that?"

Does Santa Claus let Esquimo his lawn or does he cut it with an icicle?

MY GENEVIEVE

I gently drew her to me,
For I knew that she was shy,
And that she didn't trust me
By the gleaming in her eye.

With words of sweet devotion
I coaxed her and caressed,
As I scarce controlled emotion
That swelled up in my breast.

At last she was offended
By something that I said,
Or, seeing what I intended,
She quickly turned and fled.

Now I pursue her still,
Though I know that I'm a fool,
For I surely aim to kill
That darn Missouri mule.

SAN BRUNO

AUGUST LUND PASSES

Although his health failed him gradually for many months, the death of August Lund of this place last Sunday evening shortly after 8 o'clock at the age of 78 years occasioned considerable surprise throughout the entire community, he having been confined to his bed for but a few days. The deceased leaves a widow and a large circle of friends to mourn his loss. Brief funeral services, attended by many local residents, were held at the Anderson undertaking parlors on Valencia street, San Francisco. Later the remains were borne to their last resting place in Cypress Lawn Cemetery.

Traffic Officer Carl Lewis, having sufficiently recovered from injuries sustained in a recent collision, is once more back on the job, making life miserable for motorists guilty of violating the traffic laws.

Five-year-old Henry Wiche, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wiche of First Addition, lies painfully injured at a San Mateo hospital as a result of being struck by the fender of a passing motor car last Saturday as he was trying to cross the highway in order to get a "close up" of an aeroplane which had landed near by. The motorist, in an effort to steer clear of the lad, swerved sharply to one side, upsetting and wrecking the car and seriously injuring two of its occupants.

After a well-earned rest City Clerk Miss Willis is again back at her desk in the city hall.

The Filbin family, until recently occupants of the Flynn house in Fourth Addition, have taken up residence in the Hall dwelling in Belle Air Park.

The street improvement work in San Bruno Park is now completed.

The Buzzard family, having sold their home in Third Addition, moved into the Coughlin place in First Addition, recently vacated by the Schweinhart family.

After being confined to the hospital at San Mateo for three months as a result of having been run down by a motorist on San Mateo avenue, Ardis Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Miller of First Addition, was brought home last week, where she is slowly recovering from her injuries.

LOOKING THROUGH A WET WINDSHIELD

That's the way most motorists unconsciously see the road and the pedestrians. Fact! And easily understandable when one stops to realize that seven men in ten have defective eyes. Most of them don't know it. There would be fewer accidents, greater driving efficiency and more mental ease if motorists would obey that impulse and have their eyes examined to make sure of their exact condition and stop "guessing about it." In California investigation showed that 50% of all motor accidents were due to defects of vision. Save your sight. H. C. The Brown Mouse

By HERBERT QUICK

Did you ever hear of a mouse that did any good? Neither have we; but it appears that there is a brown one which has a great faculty for stirring up things in mouse society; and when a human is born with some of the characteristics of this little animal, he always manages to make a stir in his circles.

If you are a farmer you are going to revel in this story, for, along with some very delightful romance, it carries a number of ideas that are sure to be valuable in your business. If you are a town person it carries some ideas that will greatly interest you, and you will be charmed by its love story. Read about Jim Irwin, the human brown mouse, who dared to aspire to the affections of the queen mouse of his district.

SEEKING KIND HUSBANDS

Young Women of Holland Understand That Americans Treat Their Wives Well.

Thirty-five young women from Holland stepped foot on American shores the other day admitting they are seeking "kind husbands" because they heard that American men are good to their wives. Some American wives may be inclined to enjoy a silent laugh over this innocence displayed by the Hollanders, but after the first humorous aspect of the situation has passed, most of those who have enjoyed the comedy will be inclined to believe after all that there is much merit in what these foreign women say about the husbands of America, observes the Bangor Commercial.

When one sits down and considers the lot of women in many countries of Europe, and reflects upon the limited opportunities which they possess for enjoying life, it ought to be a source of mutual satisfaction both to husbands and wives in America that they are living in a country where a higher standard of marital relationship obtains than in many foreign nations.

The first Bible printed in Scotland was issued complete in 1579. In the same year, by act of parliament, every man, householder, and others—"Worth thrie hundred merks of yerlie rent or above," and every yeoman and burges with $2500 had to provide, under a penalty of $50, "a Bible and psalme booke in vulgar language in their housis for the better instruction of thame selfis and thair famelies in the knowledge of God." And to see that the provisions of the above act were carried into effect, the following year a searcher was appointed with power to visit the houses of those signified by the act, "and to require the sight of their Psalme Booke and Bybilla."

Graduate Nurse Finds "The Perfect Remedy"

"From my long experience as a professional nurse, I do not hesitate to say Tanlac is nature's most perfect remedy," is the far-reaching statement given out for publication, recently, by Mrs. I. A. Borden, 425 Pontius Ave., Seattle, Wash., a graduate of the National Temperance Hospital, Chicago.

"I have used Tanlac exclusively for seven years in the treatment of my charity patients," said Mrs. Borden, "and my experience has been that for keeping the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels functioning properly, and for toning up the system in general, it has no equal."

"About a year ago I had a lady patient who could not keep a thing on her stomach, not even water. I prevailed on her to try Tanlac and after the sixth bottle she could eat absolutely anything she wanted without the slightest bad after-effects.

"I had another patient who simply could not eat. I got him started on Tanlac and by the time he finished three bottles he was eating ravenously and able to work.

"These two instances are typical of the wonderful merits of the medicine. My confidence in Tanlac is unlimited."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists.

George Ade on Women.

Women of high voltage are especially keen as "arrangers." The married woman decides that Herbert, her husband's bachelor friend (with the false eyebrows), is just the man for Ella, a holdover from the puff sleeve period. So she invites the two case-hardened waifs out for the week-end and issues secret orders that whenever Herb and Ella can be assembled together on one settee, then all the others are to run away and leave them. And yet you may have read in a book somewhere that woman is man's best friend.—From "Single Blessedness," by George Ade.

Wage Slave.

The wife of a certain prominent member of the Los Angeles Athletic club button-holed her husband the other day with tears in her eyes. "Darling," she murmured, "every day this week I've been looking in the window of a store near the club where there's a perfect dream of a hat, but the price was so tremendous—"

"Perhaps," began the fond husband.

"Yes, dear! But there isn't any more. I paid the cook this noon, and what do you think? she marched right down and bought herself that very hat!"

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It

Applicants for Insurance Often Rejected.

Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has been very successful in overcoming these conditions. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of success.

An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview on the subject, made the astonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Advertisement.

"Yes."

"Will you marry me?"

"No."

"I thought you wouldn't."

"Then why did you ask me?"

"Oh, just to see how a man feels when he loses 75,000 pounds."

BANDIT KILLED AFTER SAN MATEO HOLDUPS

Gang Captured in San Jose After Robbing Two Taxi Drivers in This County.

Robert Burton, aged 23, who gave his residence as Pasadena, is dying in a San Jose hospital of gunshot wounds, while two comrades and members of a bandit gang are in jail in that city and a fourth is being sought.

The four staged a pleasure jaunt through San Mateo county in taxis at an early hour Sunday, which ended in robbing Eddie Dunnigan of $250 and his car and leaving him tied to a tree, and the robbery of Gilbert R. Clinton, a San Francisco taxi driver, of $8.

The four approached Clinton in San Francisco late Saturday night and engaged him to drive them to San Mateo. Just below San Mateo three of the men got out and walked into San Mateo, engaging Dunnigan to drive them to Redwood City. On the outskirts of San Mateo they robbed Dunnigan of $250, then with the first taxi and its occupants they started south apparently, according to the taxi drivers, intending to join forces at Palo Alto, but the driver of the first machine, on orders of the bandit occupying his car, gave the others the slip. The man in this car is declared by the bandits now in jail to have had with him a large sum of money, including all they had taken from the two taxi drivers and the receipts of several other holdups.

Arriving in Palo Alto the three forced Dunnigan to drive them about the streets for two hours while they searched for their companion. Several times they passed within a few feet of officers, Dunnigan declares.

Falling to find the missing machine the three bandits ordered Dunnigan to drive them to San Francisco, but when near Lomita Park the three forced him out and tied him to a tree, then drove north. Later they turned and drove to San Jose. Dunnigan, released from his predicament by passing motorists, walked back to San Mateo and told his story to police. Shotgun squads were posted on the highway, but the bandits had already reached San Jose and Dunnigan's car was soon found abandoned on the edge of that city.

Later the San Jose police found the three men in a lodging house, but when arrest was attempted the bandits opened fire. During the battle Burton was fatally shot by Deputy Sheriff Floyd Hopping. In the emergency hospital, told by physicians he could not live, Burton confessed to a number of holdups on the highway the gang had staged, and also declared that a shot from his gun had killed a Los Angeles policeman following the robbery of an oil station in that city several weeks ago. Burton and the two bandits in jail have been identified as members of a gang which held up a poolroom at Gilroy, escaping with $1500. Police from Salinas and Stockton have identified them as gangsters who staged robberies in both those cities.

EMPLOYEE OF P. G. & E. IN THIS CITY INJURED

Charles Foley, Henry Mengels and Harold Mitchell, all of Redwood City, had a narrow escape from serious injury or death Sunday afternoon when the auto in which they were driving was forced off the highway at San Carlos and turned over, pinning the three men beneath it. The car was a new Hudson and was being driven by Foley. Foley was forced to turn off to the side quickly to avoid a collision with another car which had stopped abruptly to avoid being struck by another machine which cut in ahead of it. Foley received a fractured rib and severe cuts about his head, while the others escaped with cuts and bruises. Foley is well known in this city, being employed here by the Pacific Gas and Electric Company.

ILLICIT STILL BLOWN UP BY HEAT OF SUN

Jules Louchere of 224 Oliver avenue, Redwood City, and Joseph Blaise, who gave his residence as Mill Valley, were arrested in Redwood City Thursday of last week following the explosion of a still for the manufacture of illicit liquor at Louchere's house. Fire broke out after the explosion and was with difficulty kept from destroying the building. It is claimed the heat of 95 degrees, registered at Redwood that day, exploded the still. Both men were released on $300 bail pending a hearing.

Martin Tovar of 548 Sacramento street, San Francisco, was fined $300 Wednesday by Judge Ray Griffin of Redwood City for the possession of liquor. He was arrested recently on the Portola road in this county.

WARNER'S Gives Graceful Lines

Have you ever stopped to think that "corseting" does not mean merely wearing a corset? What we mean by "Warner Corseting" is the "underfitting" of the figure complete with Warner's Corsets and Warner's Brassieres so as to make the smooth, graceful figure lines required by Dress Fashion.

How frequently does it happen that the only thing which stands between a woman and her heart's desire in a dress is the fact that the dress was designed for figure lines which she does not possess. That is just where "Warner Corseting" comes in—to adapt the figure lines to the dress fashions of the day—to fit, to be comfortable and healthful.
